For Immediate Release:

The Low Income Housing Institute celebrates the grand opening of

The Bart Harvey

50 Units of Green & Affordable Homes for Seniors Named in honor of Barton Harvey III

Seattle, WA -- June 22, 2009 -- The Grand Opening celebration for The Bart Harvey, in Seattle’s South Lake Union neighborhood, is scheduled for Wednesday July 8. The event will take place at the Bart Harvey Housing site, located at 430 Minor Ave. N. in Seattle, with a brief program from 3:30 PM until 5:00 PM.

The project provides housing for low income, disabled and homeless seniors. Formerly called “Cascade Senior Housing” it has been renamed in honor of Barton Harvey III, who served as Chief Executive Officer of Enterprise Community Partners from 1993 to 2007, and as chairman of the Board of Trustees until his retirement in March 2008. Mr. Harvey had a career dedicated to the creation of affordable housing and rebuilding communities. LIHI is delighted to have this opportunity to honor Mr. Harvey and his work. Mr. Harvey himself is scheduled to speak at the celebration, as are Doris Koo the current CEO of Enterprise, Seattle Mayor Greg Nickels, Project Architect Michele Wang and LIHI Executive Director Sharon Lee.

The Bart Harvey is a new construction project which will provide 50 units of affordable housing for low income seniors, ages 62 and up, in the Cascade neighborhood. The 6-story building will feature 5 floors of studio apartments and 1-bedroom units. The ground floor will feature a library room with a computer lab, community meeting space, and offices for case management and support services.

The project has been funded through an innovative combination of funds from the HUD 202 program and low income tax credit equity. This approach to funding, which was pioneered by LIHI during the development of the Cabrini First Hill Apartments in 2006, allows the housing to be affordable to extremely low income seniors. Seniors making up to 50% of the Area Median Income are eligible to live at The Bart Harvey. The residents will pay no more than 30% of their income in rent. 10 of the units are set aside for previously homeless seniors. Another 10 units are set aside for disabled seniors.

The project’s design was guided by the energy efficiency and green building concepts set forth in the Enterprise Green Communities criteria. A great many sustainable and health-promoting elements will be incorporated into the design of the building. Some of these design elements - energy efficient Electric and HVAC systems and low-or-no VOC finish materials - have become standard in recent years as the City of Seattle and other public funders have strived to create housing that is environmentally responsible. However, several design features will be used for the first time on an affordable housing project in this region. Notable among these is a green, vegetated rooftop which uses sustainable technology to cover surfaces with lightweight soil, allowing residents to plant everything from vegetable gardens to wildflowers.

According to LIHI Executive Director Sharon Lee, “We are delighted to provide affordable housing for the ever-growing senior population in one of the most attractive, livable and walkable Seattle neighborhoods. If it were not for Cascade the Bart Harvey, low-income seniors would be priced out of South Lake Union. Additionally, as all Americans are being asked to use resources more responsibly, The Bart Harvey provides these homes by making conscientious environmental choices.”

The Bart Harvey is funded by US Department of Housing & Urban Development, Enterprise, Washington State Housing Finance Commission, KeyBank, Wells Fargo Bank, Sortun Housing Fund, and Enterprise Green Communities.
